Never in the history of any civilization worth mentioning has there been such an interest and focus by the greater society upon its young with the object of understanding them. Never has a society built such a massive educational structure to fulfill the needs, goals, and potential of its youth.

And society has benefited from its investment in higher education: From the campuses has come the expertise to travel to the moon, to crack the genetic code, and to develop computers that

Thugs Heist Barbiturates, Leave Cash

A large quantity of barbiturates were stolen from the Torrance Pharmacy, 1411 Marcelina Ave., Tuesday after burglars gained entrance through a rear door.

Phenobarbital tablets comprised the largest theft of approximately 5,000 tablets. Lesser quantities of seconal, sodium amthol and trinol were also taken in the pre-dawn theft.

Thieves apparently knew what they were looking for, money in an open cash register was ignored by the burglars who favor narcotics to cash.

Representative Attends CSEA Conference

Mrs. Jean Montagne, Torrance Unified School District, will attend the annual conference of the California School Employees Association in Los Angeles July 31 through August 5.

A member of Torrance Chapter 19, C.S.E.A., Mrs. Montagne has been appointed to the 41st annual conference planning committee.

From the campuses has come new information about Africa's resources, Latin American economics, and Oriental politics.

IN THE PAST 15 years, college and university scholars have produced a dozen or more accurate translations of the Bible — more than were produced in the past 15 centuries.

University researchers have helped virtually to wipe out three of the nation's worst diseases: malaria, tuberculosis, and polio.

The chief work in art and music outside of a few large cities, is now being done in our colleges and universities.

And profound concern for the U. S. racial situation, for U. S. foreign policy, for the problems of increasing urbanism, and for new religious forms, is now being expressed by students and professors inside the academies of higher learning. Indeed, American colleges and universities are not only different places than they were a century ago, but significantly different than they were 15 years ago.

WE LIVE, then, in a new era of rapid change; a new time when almost nothing stands still for every long. Today there's a hundred times as much to know as there was 60 years ago. Within your own productive lifetime there will be a thousand times as much to know. Is it any wonder that today's students belong to a generation distinct from any that has come before them?

Partly as a reaction to what they consider to be adult dedication to narrow, selfish pursuits, and partly in imitation of their professors, they have become more internationally minded and socially conscious.

I'd say that possibly one in ten students in some colleges works off campus in community service projects, tutoring the poor, fixing up slum dwellings, or singing and acting for local charities. To the consternation of many adults, some of them
